This feedback report presents the results of your organisation's participation in the Yorkshire and Humber Environment Index 2009 and will enable you to benchmark your performance against others in your sector and the overall universe of Index participants.

This year a total of 86 companies in Yorkshire and Humber have used the Index as a management tool.

Overall, performance in the Environment Index has decreased very slightly since 2008. However, in view of the fact that first-time participants, who traditionally score lower in the first year, make up 38% of total participation in 2009, this is a very good achievement for the region.

NB: When comparing annual results, please note that there have been changes and additions to Index questions between 2008 and 2009.
